The second column denotes the parents, wife or husband, and the birth dates. The birth date has been placed in the fourth column when no room was found in the second column. The fourth column denotes the age, and in some cases, the birth or death, all of which can easily be ascertained by computation. The last column is the key to the cemetery in which the person in column one is buried. See page 6.

The compiler is sorry that these graves were not copied in the manner in which they were sent to her, that is, in the cemeteries where they are buried rather than the alphabetical arrangement, but this method had not been used previously. However, the cemeteries in the other counties are so arranged which may facilitate records.

These records were secured from the gravestones by the members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Guthrie Center Chapter, Guthrie Center, Iowa, in 1935, and compiled by the State Chairman of Genealogical Records, Mrs. Myrtle Hardenbergh Miller, Atlantic, Iowa, 1937.

Look for all possible spellings of the name for which you are hunting. It has been difficult to determine all the names.

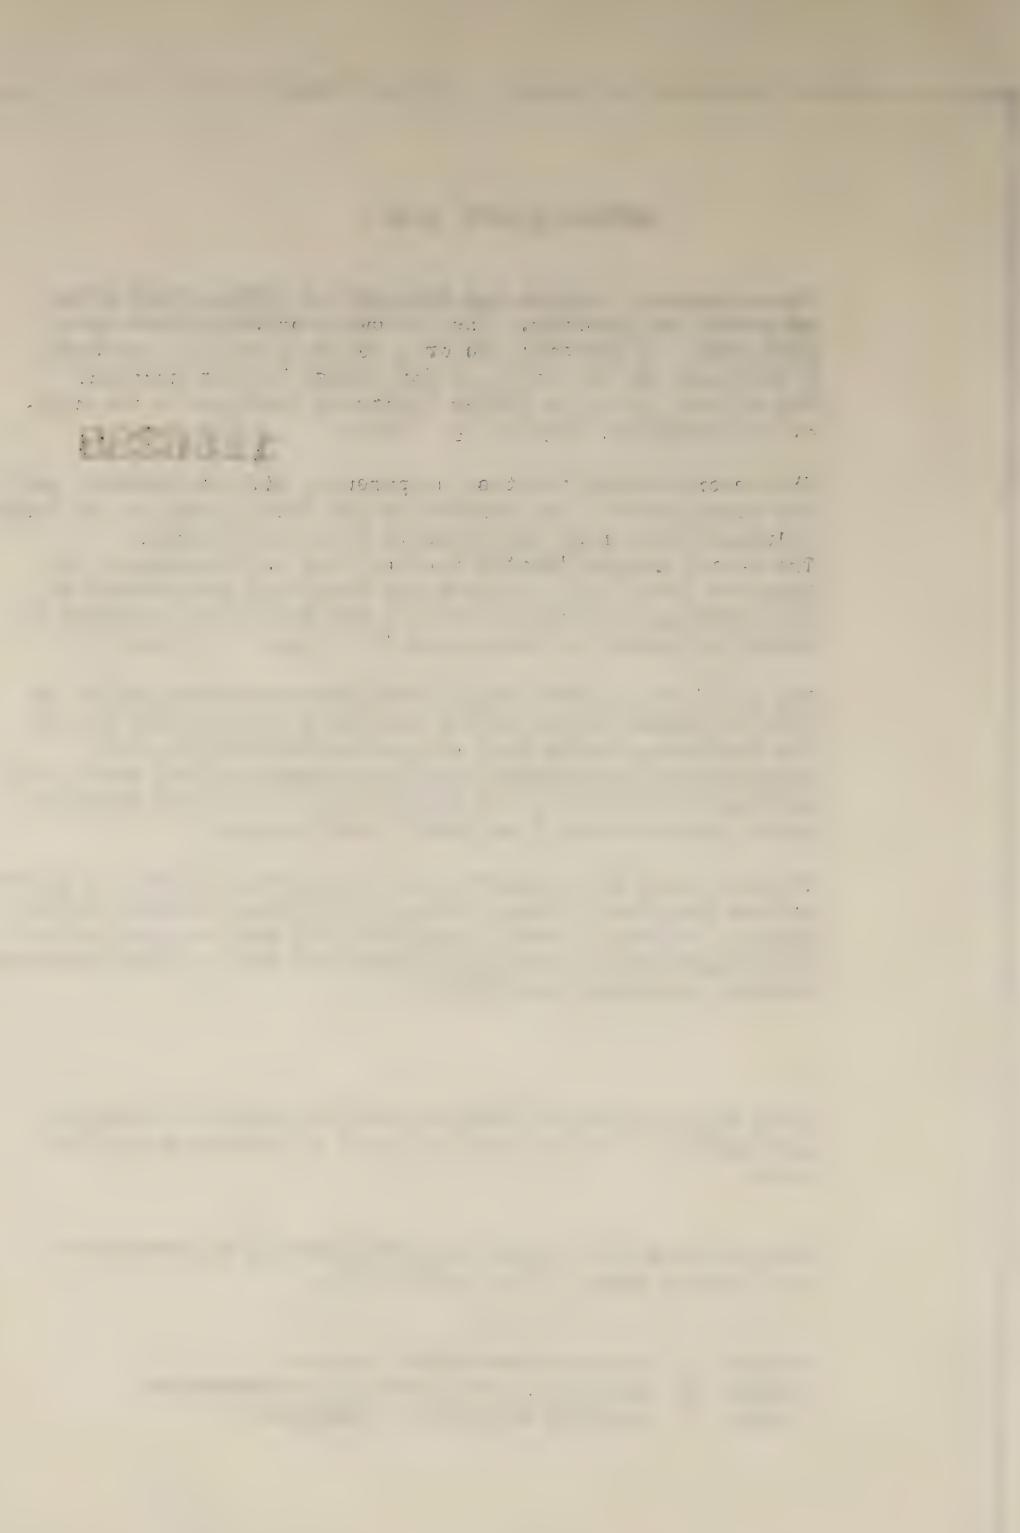

The marriage records are indexed according to both men's and women's names. Look both places.

NEWSPAPERS OF GUTHRIE COUNTY IOWA
and HISTORICAL NOTES

THE GUTHRIAN A weekly newspaper; established
May 25, 1872, still issued 1938.
Issued first as the Guthrie County Journal, changed to Beacon Light, and in 1879 to The Guthrian. Has a fairly complete file beginning with Vol. 4, 1877. It has not been abstracted, and is complete in contents.

THE TIMES A weekly newspaper; established
Aug. 1879. "Iowa Star"
Files are partially complete. An unorganized file, impossible to give missing dates.
It has not been abstracted. Not of so much value for early history, on account of missing files.

GUTHRIE COUNTY was named by Theophilus Bryan in honor of his friend Captain Guthrie, who served in the Mexican war.

The first white settler was John Nevins who built the first log cabin in Jackson township in 1848.

County organized 1851, July 8 by Mr. Bryan, who died Oct. 8, 1856.
The county had a population of 222. County seat located at Panora. In 1855 Guthrie Center was laid out and in 1859 the county seat was removed there. About two years later it was returned to Panora and in 1873 was a second time taken to Guthrie Center where it remains. (1939). The first marriage license issued was to George Messenger and Lucinda Casteel.
The early towns were Guthrie Center, Panora, Guthrie located west of Stuart, Stuart, Casey, Morrisburg, Dale City, and Dalmanutha. These last three villages were laid out in 1855 and are places of the past.

The first newspaper was the WESTERN PIONEER published in the winter of 1855 by William Tracy. The GUTHRIE VIDETTE was published in 1868 at Panora by A. Apple.

Copied from A. T. Andreas' Historical
Atlas of 1875.

AUDUBON COUNTY IOWA

The first permanent settlers of Audubon County were Nathaniel Hamlin, William P. Hamlin, Arthur Decker, and John S. Jenkins and family. They all arrived at what is known as Hamlin's Grove on May 9, 1851. In the fall of the same year Dr. S. M. Ballard and E. M. Hyatt took claims in Big Grove, now Ballard's Grove, and William Powell located where Exira now is. In the spring of 1853 Alvin Herrick and his son Urbane settled in the upper end of Big Grove.

The first marriage took place April 16, 1856, that of George B. Kellogg and Susannah Kenyon.

The first death was that of the wife of Arthur Decker in the fall of 1852.

Prior to April 6, 1855, the county was a part of Cass County. On the 20th of June 1855 a committee was selected to choose the first county seat which was located on the $\frac{1}{2}$ NW of Section 22, Twp. 78, R. 35, calling the place Dayton. This land was originally owned by R. C. Meek. The site of the county seat was changed to Viola in 1856, now Exira. Later it was removed to Audubon. The first election was held in the cabin of John S. Jenkins.

The first public religious services were held in the log school house at Hamlin's Grove by the Methodists.

The first school was at Hamlin's Grove, taught by Miss Northgrove, and the next by Miss Beers.

The first newspaper was the Audubon County Pioneer which was published at Audubon City in 1860 and continued three months. The Editor was John C. Brown. The Audubon County Defender was published in Exira in 1873.

The early villages of the county were Exira, first called Viola, Oakfield five miles southwest of Exira, Louisville about two and one-half miles west of Exira, and Audubon City.

The first store in the county was opened at Oakfield by Erasmus Bradley. About the same time N. Hamlin and H. M. Beck opened a store at Hamlin's Grove.

Atlas of 1875.
